

Quantities of individual materials used by the home appliance sector

Considering the total number of home appliances places on the EU market in 2018 and the average composition derived from the analysis of nearly 40 additional sources providing averages of a number of products, the above quantities of individual materials were used by the home appliance sector.

Source: Sofies calculations based on APPLiA Members data